A PERSON OF 30 may secure Rs. 1,000 at Death by a yearly payment of Rs. 27-4 during life. This premium would generally elsewhere secure Rs. 800 only instead of Rs. 1,000.

OR, if unwilling to burden himself with payments during his whole life, he may secure the same sum of Rs. 1,000 by twenty yearly payments of Rs. 36, being thus free of Premiums before age 50; this premium being about the same as most Offices require during the whole term of life.

OR, if preferring to make provision for his old age or for his family in case of death, he may secure the same sum of Rs. 1,000 payable at age 55 or death by yearly payments of Rs. 33-11.

TO PROFESSIONAL MEN AND OTHERS

Whose income is dependent upon health, the Limited Payment System or Endowments Assurance is specially recommended.

It is a real specific for Gout and Rheumatic pains. It removes the cause from the Blood and Bones.

An old Mixture is pleasant to the taste, and warranted free from anything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietors solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

Colour-Sergeant Instructor Jno. Howarth Cheshire Regiment, Chester, writes:" I suffered from Rheumatism in my arms and legs for over five years. I also had a bruised shin bone, through which I could rest only for a few minutes at a time. All sorts of remedies were applied, but none did any good for more than a few days. After this I was recommended to try Clarke's Blood Mixture,' which I did, and on taking the first bottle I felt relief. I therefore continued with this excellent medicine, and it effected a perfect cure. This was more than a year ago and I am pleased to say I have not felt the least pain since—in fact, I am in good health at ever I was in my life.

"Moreover, I told two friends of mine who were laid up with Rheumatism of my case, and they tried 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' They are tailors by trade, and in seven days they were at work again. They say this medicine cannot be too highly praised.

"May 18, 1899."

Mr George Price, St. Margaret's-on-Thames, writes:—"I feel that I should write you a few lines in praise of Clarke's Blood Mixture. I have been suffering these last few years with Eczema and Blotches, which prevented me following my occupation, and I can safely say I have spent scores of pounds in all sorts of other medicines. A little while ago, however, I was advised by a friend of mine who has taken Clarke's Blood Mixture to try a bottle, and to my great relief I am a new man and able at the present time to go on with my business, being now quite well. In fact, I cannot give it too much praise. You are at liberty to make what use you like of this testimonial for the benefit of others who may be suffering from the same complaint.

"December 22, 1899."

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY.

TRADE THERAPION MARK.

This successful and highly popular remedy, as employed in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Rostan, Jobert, Velpeau, and others, combines all the desiderata to be sought in a medicine of the kind, and surpasses everything hitherto employed.

THERAPION No. 1 in a few days only removes all discharges from the urinary organs, effectually superseding injections, the use of which does irreparable harm by laying the foundation of stricture and other serious diseases. In dysentery, piles, irritation of the lower bowel, cough, bronchitis, asthma, and some of the more trying complaints of this kind, it will be found astonishingly efficacious, affording prompt relief where other well tried remedies have been powerless.

THERAPION No. 2 for impurity of the blood, scurvy, pimples, spots, blotches, pains and swellings of the joints—often mistaken for rheumatism—secondary symptoms disease of the bones, sore throat, and all diseases for which it has been so long the fashion to employ mercury, sarsaparilla, &c., to the destruction of the sufferer's teeth and ruin of health. This preparation purifies the whole system through the blood, and thoroughly eliminates every poisonous matter from the body.

THERAPION No. 3 for nervous exhaustion, waste of vitality, harassing dreams, and all the distressing consequences arising from early error, excess, residence in hot, unhealthy climates, &c. It possesses surprising power in restoring strength and vigour to the debilitated.

THERAPION may be procured at 2/9 and 4/6 per package, of all the principal Chemists and Merchants throughout the World. In ordering, the purchaser should state which of the three numbers he requires, and observe above Registered Trade Mark, which is a fac-simile of the word "THERAPION" as it appears on the Government Stamp (in white letters on a red ground), affixed to every genuine package by order of Her Majesty's Hon Commissioners, and without which it is a forgery.

BOMBAY, FRIDAY, JULY 26.

We still continue to receive very satisfactory reports, as a general rule, from the growing districts. In the Berars, especially, the monsoon has been very good and from all parts in that district, the crops are thriving. From the Central Provinces the weeks's rains have been steady and continuous and all reports point to good results. The monsoon has advanced into the North-West Provinces and good rains are advised from several districts. From Broach the latest reports are of crowds of rats damaging the young plants in the fields. The Dhollera districts still complain of deficiency in the rainfall, and cotton sowing has not commenced in some places. Kathiawar generally, requires more rain, and Ahmedabad still shows considerable minus quantity on the average up to date. The money market continues with large surplus supplies, the Presidency Banks both showing increases in their latest cash balances. The rates remain unchanged at three per cent. per annum.

The Bombay Port Trust Loan of eleven and a half lakhs was closed on the 22nd instant. Tenders were made for a total of Rs. 50,60,000 and the average rate of tenders accepted was Rs. 99 5-0. This is a favorite loan amongst local investors and the result may be considered satisfactory. Government Paper has been in good request the last few days, and large transactions have taken place in the bazaar. Exchange has been a quiet market throughout the week and the amount of business reported has been on a very moderate scale. Cotton has been very steady with a good enquiry from the local mills, and shippers to the Far East. Yarns have been in good demand and sales amounting to fully 25,000 bales have been made for China since last mail, at an advance of 1-16th to 1-8th. Latest reports from the China market show a good enquiry with an increase in the prices lately ruling there. Seeds have been firm during the week, closing with slightly higher prices than those ruling at the departure of the last mail. Freight has been a quiet market, with business passing daily to a moderate extent for ready and near forward delivery. Heavy shipments of cotton and twist have been made during the week for Japan and China, there having been several steamers on the berth loading for the Far East.

EXCHANGE.

Although this market opened steady at last week's closing rates, a weaker feeling was apparent on Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday morning all Banks quoted a decline of 1-32nd in their T. T. selling rates. Ready business, in both buying and selling, has been of the hand to mouth order, while but little has passed for forward delivery. September were was done to a small extent on Monday at 1-3-15-16 but the enquiry for further forward telegraphic transfers has this week been conspicuous by its absence. Some parcels of bills for delivery into next season have been on the market at somewhat fine rates, but the Banks seem averse to making purchases for distant delivery except at full rates. The Bazaar has been buying at 1-3 29-32 demand at which they have taken a moderate amount for delivery from the middle of August to the middle of September. We have again had a blank week so far as Council Bills are concerned, and, as we wrote last mail, the enquiry for this form of finance is likely to be very limited so long as exchange remains in the dull state it is now in, with no sterling bills making. There has been another week of large transactions passing for China and Japan for both ready and near forward delivery Closing rates are :—

Bank T. T. on London Ready.	1s. 3 27-32d.

The mail of 12th July which arrived in Bombay this morning, brought silver to Bombay, £170,000 and the following council bills.

Calcutta	10'00 lakhs.
Bombay	'10 „
Madras	'20 „ = 10'30 lakhs.

The mail of 19th July due in Bombay about the 2nd proximo, brings to Bombay Silver £140,000 and Gold £10,000 and Council Bills to Madras Rs.10,000. The mail of 26th July due in Bombay about the 9th proximo, brings to Bombay Silver £110,000 and Gold £10,000 with no Council bills advised.

MONEY.

The plethora of money in the Banks causes an entire absence of any enquiry from them, and it is impossible to fix any rates for short deposits. The Bank of Bombay weekly cash balance made up to the 20th instant showed a decline in the trade demand of 15 lakhs. The cash balance was 6 lakhs up, while public deposits declined 8 lakhs and Bank investments were Rs. 58,000 up. The Bank of Bengal weekly cash balance made up to the 24th instant, shows a falling off in public demand of 21 lakhs. The cash balance was 15 lakhs up, Bank investments 7 lakhs up, and Government balances 1-2 lakh up. Both Banks retain there rate of interest, viz., 3 per cent. per annum since the 18th instant.

GOVERNMENT PAPER.

The market has been steadier during the week under report. On Monday the market opened at 95 7-8, and closed at 95 13-16. per cent. for the earlier settlement. On Tuesday and Wednesday the prices ruled between 95 7-8 and 96 with a fair amount of transactions passing. On Thursday on account of better advices from Calcutta and better weather reports, the market gradually improved to 96 1-4. per cent. To-day the market opened at 96 1-4, and declined to 96 3-16. at which rate it closes with buyers. The settlement of 30th August is 3-16. per cent. lower than the rate for that of 31st July. Ready Paper in large amounts is quoted the same as for the early settlement, while small clean pieces are about 3 annas higher. Municipal and Port Trust debentures are steady at previous quotations without much doing in them.

SHARE MARKET.

Press and Mill shares are getting steadier on account of favourable reports of rain. Bank of Bombay shares are steady at 1250x.d. and Commercials are quiet a 153. In mill shares Centrals and Chinas are quiet at 1570 and 430. Colaba Land are in demand at 345, Currimbhai and David Mill shares are unchanged at 570 and 227 1-2. In Messrs Greaves Cotton and Co's. mill shares Connought, Howard, James Greaves and Empress are quiet at 465, 450, 330 and 230, respectively. Leopolds are steady at 153. Manekji Petits have improved to 1720XD. Swadeshis are steady at 530. Other Mill shares are quiet at previous quotations, without any transactions passing. In Railway Companies-Tapti Valleys are steady at 437 1-2 and Ahmedabad-Prantej are weak at 630. In miscellaneous Companies Kemps and Treachers have declined to 330 and 800, respectively. Port Cannings have improved to 467 1-2 and Phillips have changed hands at 15. In Press shares Indians, Berars, mofussils are steady at 155, 545 and 430. The remaining companies are more or less unchanged at their previous quotations.

BULLION.

In sympathy with advices from London the market for silver has advanced a little during the week and we hear that a moderate amount of business has been put through. There has been little doing in bar gold. We quote:—

	Rs.
English bar silver ex-duty. 0-0 Ready.
Do. „ ... 0-0 6 5th Aug settlement
English bar gold „ ..... 24-3 Ready.
Mint gold „ ..... 24-0 „

COALS.

There is nothing reported except resales of a few hundred tons Jardine Navigation at Rs. 13-2 ex-discharging steamer and at Rs. 13 for October to December shipment.

PIECE GOODS.

The market continues dull. This week there has been a total absence of any up country demand and forward business is almost impossible. Prices for whites are the same as last week. In greys prices for one or two favourite cloths have been raised by dealers, but they are nominal as no sales have been effected.

YARNS.

There has been some activity in this market. About 25,000 bales of local yarn have been sold by the mills for export to China, and this has strengthened the prices which are firm 1-16th to 1-8th higher than last week. Shipments to China have been very large, as it is generally believed that an increased import duty will shortly be levied by the Chinese Government, to assist in paying off the war indemnity, and shipments are being hurried into the country in anticipation.

METALS.

The metal market is extremely dull with little doing. Copper and Yellow Metal are quite with a very limited offtake. Iron is weak with a downward tendency, in sympathy with advices from the home markets, and the demand is very small. The only sale reported is about 300 tons Belgian Basic Bar at £6-5 to £6-6-3 ex Bunder. The following an present quotations for some classes of iron :—

Belgian Bar	Rs.	5-4 per cwt.
Basic Bar	„	5-2 to 5-4 do.
Nail Rods	„	5-3 do.
Shut iron	„	do.
Galvanized Corrugated ...	„	9-2 do.
Swedish iron	„	9 do.

FREIGHT.

We have experienced a quiet week in this market, rates having again given way slightly, causing a fair amount of booking to be ready and August shipment. The leading steamers booked seeds at 15s. down to 14s. 6d. with measurement at 15s. 6d. to 15s. and August shipment has been put through at 14s. 6d. down to 14s. for seeds. The enquiry for forward shipment is on a small scale and business generally is limited. The steamer "Fonar" is fixed for August loading at 14s. one p.p. and 14s. 6d. two p.p.

SEEDS AND WHEATS.

This market was quiet early in the week, and prices declined slightly. But the lower rates again attracted buyers and we close at about the same as the prices current when last mail left. A moderate business has been put through, but the limited stocks prevent any large transactions, sellers being scarce.

LINSEED declined to Rs. 10-2 and with a renewed enquiry again advanced to Rs. 10-6. A small business was reported in new crops at Rs. 8-11 to Rs. 8-12 for April-May delivery.

RAPESEED has been steady throughout the week at Rs. 6-11 to Rs. 6-13 for Brown Cawnpore and Delhi. The stocks of Yellow and Guzerat are small and quotations are more or less nominal.

POPPYSEED was quiet at Rs. 8-10 early in the week but closes steady with buyers at Rs. 8-12.

CASTORSEED.—Little business is reported in this article, the price has remained at Rs. 33-12 to Rs. 34 throughout the week.

WHEAT.—No interest is shown by shippers in this market. The local demand and speculation keeps the prices steady. At the close we quote Rs. 4-12-6 for White Delhi.

COTTON.

Since the departure of last mail we have had a steady market, notwithstanding the decline advised from New York and Liverpool. The local market is, for the present, out of touch with Americans, and is governed by the demand from our Mills and the position of cotton in Japan. Dealers are firm and refuse to give any concession on market prices for their goods, and the sales of the past week have caused many of them to withdraw their stocks for the present. The quality of the cotton now offered is falling off, the finer descriptions becoming exhausted, and the lower classes which were neglected and unsaleable a few weeks ago, are becoming more in request. The reports from many of the growing districts continue extremely favourable, and should the present weather conditions continue, we may again hope for bumper Oomra and Khandeish crops. There has been no inquiry for new crops from the shippers, but local speculation kept prices up until to-day, when the further fall advised from New York and Liverpool, combined with the very favourable weather report issued at noon, has caused a decline of Rs. 3 to Rs. 4 with many sellers and no business reported.

A CASE of great interest to house-holders in which a native landlord brought a suit against a former tenant, Captain H. B. Ennis, has just been concluded in Lahore. Captain Ennis took the house in question on a lease for five years, in the belief that repairs would be executed to his satisfaction, but as soon as he set foot in the house the work of repairs laxed and then came to a dead stop. Captain Ennis accordingly vacated the house after giving notice that the premises were in a dangerous condition. The landlord first brought a criminal suit and then two civil suits and wrote threatening further suits. The Court found that Captain Ennis had intended to fulfil his part of the contract until the condition of the premises made him apprehensive of danger to life. The Court was of opinion that the present suit was filed merely for the love of litigation, and that the landlord seemed determined not to let Captain Ennis have peace of mind for the rest of his life, that the litigation was frivolous and malicious, and that the plaintiff had totally failed to show how the defendant was liable. The Court accordingly gave judgment for the defendant.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO A PAINTER.—MR. P. Byrne, the Coroner, held an inquiry yesterday, at Samuel Street, Mandvie, regarding the death of Bhujung Mahadeo, a painter, aged fifty-four years. The evidence showed that on Wednesday last the deceased was engaged in painting the front part of the fourth storey of a house in Samuel Street, when he accidentally fell down from a height of about forty feet. His skull was fractured and he died shortly after. A verdict of accidental death was recorded.

A DISHONEST RAMOSEE.—At the Esplanade Police Court, yesterday, before Mr. Karsondas Chhabildas, Third Presidency Magistrate, Ajodhia Prasad Sadagopal, a ramosee, was prosecuted by Constable Hanley, on three charges of theft of Indian condiments and gunny bags of the aggregate value of Rs. 72, the property of A. Jamshedji Hadjiwa Narayandas Gugo and Allibboy Peerbhoy. It appears that complainants had their business premises in Jandlecker Street and accused was employed there as a watchman. He seemed to have taken advantage of his position, and committed the theft of the above property, the whole of which was recovered by the Police. The magistrate convicted the accused and sentenced him to eighteen months' rigorous imprisonment on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.—An inquiry was held yesterday at the Goouldas Tejpal Hospital by Mr. P. Byrne, the Coroner, on the body of Casse, a Hindu woman, aged thirty-five years. The deceased was a labourer and on the 12th May last, while at work at the Parsee Gymkhana, which was being rebuilt and extended, she accidentally fell from the scaffolding, a height of about twelve feet, sustaining a fracture of the right thigh. She was taken to the hospital, where she was operated upon. On Thursday the fractured leg was operated upon. She did not recover and died the same evening. The Jury returned a verdict of accidental death.—Another inquiry was held at the same hospital, by the Coroner, regarding the death of Walbai, an old Hindu woman, aged eighty years, who resided as Chuckla. On the 15th instant the deceased was accidentally knocked down by a carriage on Bhuleshwar Road and one of the wheels passed over her right arm fracturing it. She died of exhaustion at the Hospital. A verdict of accidental death in accordance with the above facts was recorded

INDIAN CROP PROSPECTS.

BENGAL SUGAR CANE.

THE preliminary forecast of the sugarcane crop of Bengal, 1901 reads :—

Explanatory.—This forecast deals primarily with the estimates of area and outturn of the sugarcane crop of the province, but with Government order No. 1447.—R., dated the 22nd May 1899, instructions were issued for the inclusion in this report of estimates of the amount of sugar produced from other sources than cane. Reliable statistics on the subject are not, however, as yet available, and it is considered impossible to give any more definite information than that which has been furished by some of the District officers.

The character of the season.—The rainfall in January was everywhere above the normal for the month, except in East Bengal. In the following month, the fall was deficient in east and north Bengal, and there was a marked deficiency throughout the province in March. Many parts or the province received fair rain in April, but the districts of north Bengal and Bihar continued to suffer from want of rain in that month. The drought was further emphasised in May everywhere but in Bihar, the defect being considerable in East Bengal. In June there was heavy rain in north and east Bengal especially in the districts of Dacca and Mymensingh, but in the Orissa and Chota Nagpur Divisions and in most districts of Bihar, the fall was very scanty. Since the last few days of June, however, the rainfall has been general and steady, and this has greatly improved the prospects of this crop. On the whole, the season has not hitherto been altogether favourable to the sugarcane crop, which has also, in a few districts, suffered from locusts and insect pests.

Area sown.—Since the publication of last year's final report on this crop, the following Officers of Dinajpur, Saran, Champaran, and the Sonthal Parganas have revised their estimates of the normal area, and in consequence the provincial total now stands at 899,100 acres against 903 900 acres, as estimated in 1900. Several district officers have also revised their estimates of the are planted with sugarcane last year, with the result that the total area cultivated with sugarcane in 1900 is now reported to have been 857,500 acres. The total area put under this crop in the current year is estimated as 857,100 acres. "The fathere to sow the normal area is mainly due to the unfavourable character of the season.

Character of the crop.—With the recent rain the prospects of the crop have greatly improved. In 24-parganas (166 per cent.), Bhagalpur (114 per cent.) and the Sonthal Parganas (111 per cent.) an outturn above the normal is anticipated, and in the districts of Birbhum, Bankoora, Hooghly, Jessore, Rajshahi, Rangpur, Bogra, Faridpur, Backergunge, Gaya, Saran, Champaran, Hazaribagh, Palamau, and Manbhum the outturn is expected to reach the normal standard. In six districts the outturn vary between 90 and 99 per cent. In fourteen others they vary between 80 and 89 per cent., and in the remaining districts the outturn is estimated variously at between 63 and 79 per cent. of a normal crop.

Outturn.—According to the district returns, which are summarised the outturn of the crop for the Province as a whole is expected to amount to 94 per cent. of a normal crop. The prospects of the crop have, however, improved since the submission of the district returns.

HIGH COURT.—APPELLATE SIDE.

UNLAWFUL POSSESSION OF A SWORD.

IMPERATOR VS. BAIJYA MAKU.

THE accused was convicted in April last by Mr A. H. A. Simox, First Class Magistrate, Satara, of being in unlawful possession of a sword under section 19 (f) of the Arms' Act, and was sentenced to three months' rigorous imprisonment. Under section 438 of the Criminal Procedure Code, G. G. Whitworth, Sessions Judge of Satara, referred the case for the orders of the High Court, with a recommendation that the conviction be reversed. The ground for the recommendation was that no sanction for the institution of the proceeding was given by the Magistrate of the District as required by section 29 of the Act, and that the Magistrate, therefore, had no jurisdiction to take up the case; and the conviction was illegal. Mr. Whitworth was asked to give explicit reasons for holding that sanction in the case in question was necessary under section 29 of the Act; his attention being called at the same time to pages 212 and 213 of volume of the Local Rules and Orders made under enactments applying to Bombay.

In reply Mr. Whitworth stated that, on further examination of section 29 and the notifications alluded to, he was of opinion that, in the Satara District, the District Magistrate's sanction was not necessary.

Their Lordships, accordingly, saw no reason to interfere, and ordered the record and proceedings to be returned.

BOMBAY PORT TRUST.

The following are excerpts from the proceedings of a meeting of the Trustees of the Port of Bombay, held on the 18th July :—

Submitted memorandum dated 25th June 1901, addressed to the Engineer forwarding, for report and estimate, note by the Chairman, dated the 24th idem, proposing to re-erect the temporary shed between Nos. 2 sheds, Prince's Dock, the materials of the temporary shed east of No. 10 shed, Victoria Dock, which is to be pulled down to make room for the new shed, being made available.

Read letter from the Engineer, and adding that the work will take about six weeks to complete.

Resolution. The plan and estimate, the latter amounting to Rs. 11,920, are sanctioned, and the work should be proceeded with as a charge to surplus revenue and included in the supplementary estimate.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

OFFICIALS IN INDIA.

IN the House of Lords, on Friday, July 5, Lord Harris asked his Majesty's Government whether they would consider the Government of India Acts, with a view to so amending them as to enable the officials now debarred by those Acts from taking leave out of India to do so on medical certificate. He said that at the present time there were four high officials who were debarred from taking leave in Europe—the Viceroy, the Commander-in-Chief in India, and the Governors in Bombay and Madras—and it was possible that any one of these high officials might become so seriously ill that he ought to be sent home for a change. Except in this particular the Act was admirable in itself. These were the only four officials in the whole officialdom of the British Empire who were debarred from taking leave in Europe. As their lordships knew Lord Milner was now at home on leave and he had no doubt that his visit to this country would reinvigorate him for the performance of the arduous duties he had before him. He did not suppose that these high officials

SIR GERALD GRAHAM, V. C., G. C. B.

THE "Life of Sir Gerald Graham" which Colonel Vetch has written (William Blackwood and Sons) records the military experiences of a soldier from the Crimean War to the close of the last century, and gives a sympathetic insight into a character which combined all the best qualities of the peaceful citizen and man of action. Sir Gerald Graham passed out of Woolwich third of his batch and was gazetted second lieutenant in the Royal Engineers in 1850. He had thus four years' service when the Crimean War broke out. He was sent in February 1854, with a company of the Royal Sappers and Miners to Southampton, and in due course, he landed at Gallipoli in the middle of April, a halt having been made at Malta to wait for necessary men and material. On board was the "Times" correspondent, Russell, not then a well-known individual, but a busy one, who sent off his letters in "flaming, red-printed envelopes" to the redoubtable journal. Graham was an unusually tall and strong man. He stood six feet four, was developed in proportion, had a handsome, expressive face, as his portraits prove, and his nature endeared him to family and friends, altogether a singularly happy personality. Instances of his physical strength are frequent in this volume, the first is unique. When he was at the School of Military Engineering he and a friend, both wrapped in overcoats, were upset from a boat returning from Sheerness, Graham supported his friend who could not swim and swam, against a strong tide, to a man-of-war hulk. There he held on till they were rescued. Again at Gallipoli, his horse, a bad character, got loose, and defied a mixed ring of Maltese and other grooms. Graham rushed in, caught the horse by the nose and forelock, and threw him. This was a feat that might easily have tried Rarey or Captain Hayes. Sir Evelyn Wood testifies to the fine character of his courage in his history of "The Crimea in 1854 and 1894" "Graham's cool courage in these trying moments," (the Sedan and other desperate crises) "was evident from his being able to walk straight back to where he had thrown down his sword," after he had carried his Colonel, (Tylden) when wounded to a sheltered spot fifty yards away from the firing. Mr. Kinglake describes him in piloting a skirmishing party whose work it was to place the ladders in face of a murderous fire, as "a giant intent on his work as though proof against grapeshot and fear," and his men as being delighted to be led by such a man. He was one of the band of sixty-two heroes, who on their return from the Crimea received from Her late Majesty's hands the Victoria Cross, the new decoration which the Queen had just instituted. In a letter to his father, Graham tells how in pinning the cross to his coat the Queen "stuck the pin fairly into me, so that I keenly realised my momentary interview with Royalty!" We may add to his ordinary brave deeds, his fearless acceptance of reckless Russian hospitality. After peace was proclaimed the Russian and British officers fraternised, and attentions were exchanged. When a few Russian Engineer Officers were the guests, the doctor assured Captain Graham that he loved the English from the bottom of his heart and mixed his liquors as well as his affections—he drank beer, champagne, claret, sherry and other liquids impartially and let us hope hygienically. At the return feast, which was strictly Russian, the courageous guests indulged in caviare, Russian brandy, soups and forcemeat, ham and greens, rice plum-pudding, beefsteaks in grease, sweetmeats, champagne and claret. This heroic combination ought to have been as fatal as the Balaklava charge, but Graham says "We thought them uncommonly civil." The Russians had borrowed the score of God Save the Queen and gave it them three times.

General Graham, in spite of twenty years' inactive service in the flower of his life, had a varied experience of warfare. After two years in the Crimea, where he took part in many of the engagements and had his full share of all the hardships of that awful campaign, he, in 1860, was in the war with China where he served eighteen months. In the assault on the Taku Forts, after incredibly hard work in designing and planting ladders and bridges, Graham was wounded in the thigh, a bullet lodging in the flesh. He calmly mounted his horse, so as still to direct his men; presently his horse was hit near the eye, and reared up almost on end, but he sat on until the Tricolor and Union flags floated from the forts and then rode back and went into the temporary hospital until his wound allowed of his sailing up the Peiho to rejoin at the front. He mentions the arrival of General Gordon, then Captain, at Tangchow:—"Charlie Gordon arrived with Hime and the remainder of the Madras Engineers. He is still brimful of energy, but has sobered down into a more reflective character. He is really a remarkably fine fellow." On the way to Pekin, they lost their Cavalry and the French. They fired a royal salute and set bonfires blazing to let the lost ones know their whereabouts. The French had apparently marched quickly and were already merrily looting the Summer Palace. Graham's description of the state of this Palace when he saw it is shocking. On the road he met carts of loot, trains of coolies carrying more, a troop of Prohyn's Horse, each with a pile of plunder before him. At the palace itself were "silks strewn about, broken furniture, clocks, vases, &c., all thrown in heaps and trampled down. Beautiful carved ebony in the throne-room. The French found a treasure and were allowed to fill their pockets, while not even an English officer was allowed inside!" Subsequently all were put on honor to give up the loot, and a sale was held, but prices were high. Graham mentions the burning of the Summer Palace without any compunction whatever, the cause being that it was "the scene of the sufferings of our prisoners." When he started off to see the fire, he was "an hour too late for loot, the Sikhs had been before us, and all the palaces were in flames—a fine sight. The bright sun gleamed through the smoke like a moon." The treaty of peace was signed by Lord Elgin and Prince Kung in a characteristic durbar, which was photographed by Signor Beato. "Prince Kung's long, sallow, sour, hairless face was in a strong light, and he sat immovably. Then he got up and chinchin'd with his knuckles slightly, without moving a muscle of his sad, sour-looking countenance, advanced a few paces, chinchin'd again to the public and that was the last I saw of the Emperor's brother."

On Graham's return from China, he had twenty years of quiet life at home and in Canada, with a visit to Germany to see the Military manœuvres. When troubles arose in Egypt and troops were ordered to be sent there, Sir Garnet Wolesley selected Colonel Graham for the command of the 2nd Infantry Brigade under General Willis and they were soon in Alexandria. From here, as from everywhere, his letters are interesting and comprehensive. His first action at Kassassin was successful, though his own account of it does not brag much, but Lord Wolseley's telegram home left no doubt as to whom the credit belonged. In the second action at the same place Graham acted in conjuction with General Willis when the result was again a victory. For his services in this campaign he received unstinted praise and honours and was made a K. C. B. Lord Wolseley praised him and his "fighting brigade" at a banquet in 1882 and described its Commander as "a man with the heart of a lion and the modesty of a young girl." The Soudan in 1883 absorbed attention and it was decided to send General Gordon there. Graham was at Cairo and had a week of intimate companionship with Gordon before the latter departed for Khartoum. The account of his parting with his friend in the desert as the General mounted his camel is impressive. Having said goodbye, Graham climbed up one of the highest of the volcanic hills in the wild and desolate spot where they parted and "through a glass watched Gordon and the small caravan as his camels threaded their way along a sandy valley, hoping that he would turn round that I might give him one more sign; but he rode on until he turned the dark side of one of the hills and I saw him no more. Sadly we returned to our steamer, and I felt a gloomy foreboding that I should never see Gordon again," a foreboding that was accurate enough. Graham returned to his duties, and was hard at work in Egypt, taking a glorious part in the Saukin Expedition in 1885, and the same year he returned to England. He was never in active service again. His retirement from the army in 1890 was in accordance with the regulations of the service. He had been unemployed for five years, though offered the Government of Bermuda in 1888, which he declined. Nevertheless, he lived a busy and happy life until 1899, when he caught a chill going out to get the latest war news from South Africa. Pneumonia developed itself and proved fatal, adding another to the list of departed heroes who have worthily upheld the honor of his country in the field and in every relation of life. Sir Gerald Graham's interests were at all times varied. He was well-read, followed the work of the latest writers in prose and poetry with keen appreciation, could use his pen with effect, and wrote for several magazines on military matters. Colonel Vetch has done well in publishing his life.

THE WATER QUESTION.

THERE are diplomatists on the Bombay Corporation and the Hon. Mr. Mehta is the chief of them. The comprehensive motion which he placed before the meeting on Thursday affords a way out of a difficulty which was reducing the discussion of a very serious question to the level of an unseemly wrangle. We are not among those who find in everything the Corporation does only subject for flouts and gibes, though on occasion members of that body approach perilously near to absurdity. The action of the majority of the Councillors in opposing the introduction of meters was comprehensible though disapproved, but it has been very rightly pointed out that the question of meters is but a part of the larger question of the adequate supply

MEETING OF ASSAM PLANTERS.

GOVERNMENT ACTION CONDEMNED.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

DIBRUGARH, JULY 25.

The twelfth annual general meeting of the Assam branch of the Indian Tea Association was held at Jorhat on the 23th instant. There were fifty members present and the Hon'ble Mr. Buckingham presided.

The imperial or provincial tea association was unanimously agreed to on lines existing in Ceylon. The form of monthly wages return to be submitted by planters was strongly objected to as being unnecessary and misleading, and a half-yearly return showing the true wages and collateral earnings of actual labour was advocated. Considerable irritation was expressed at the Chief Commissioner's action in Council and at the tone of the resolution enforcing the submission of monthly wage statements, and also at the recent unnecessary interference with the labour force on several estates, which resulted, in one instance, in the coolies themselves going to court to protest against the action of the executive. The refusal of the Chief Commissioner to enforce the execution of the warrants against Makum Sirdars and absconders issued by the Deputy Commissioner of Lathimpur was strongly condemned, and it was resolved that the matter be referred to the Government of India through the Indian Tea Association.

Arrangements are being made to complete the equipment and reserves of the six batteries of 12 pounder B. L. mark, by guns which are under supply from Home.

It may interest the army in India to know that orders have just been issued directing that military officers attending Viceregal Lodge or functions where the Viceroy is present, will continue to wear mourning until January 24th, 1902.

The offer of bounties to 1,420 men in ten battalions of British Infantry in India, in order to induce them to extend their service with the colours for 1, 2, or 3 years', does not seem to have been successful. It applied only to soldiers who had completed seven year's service on October 1st, 1900, and the date of re-engagement was fixed at April 1st, 1901. One reason perhaps which influenced the men in not "taking on" was the proviso that the grant of bounty was conditional on the signing of an agreement to accept, for the completion of their extended service, transfer to a corps in India. Many may have thought that they were almost certain to be so transferred, and have overlooked the last few lines of the General Order which ran :—"This condition will only apply when their own battalion may leave India without being relieved by a battalion of the same regiment." Of the ten regiments selected by the War Office for the offer of bounties, the 1st Royal Warwickshire have been in India less than 3 years ; the 2nd East Lancashire less than 4 : the 1st Northamptonshire less than 9 ; the 1st Royal West Surrey 6 1-2 ; the 1st Middlesex 3 1-4 ; the 2nd Welsh less than 9 ; the 2nd Royal Scots a little over 9 years.

THE "DAILY NEWS" AND MR. KRUGER.

THOSE of our readers who expected to find that the "Daily News" had returned to grace will be disappointed when they refer to the file. It falls foul of Mr. Kruger it is true. But that is all. Our contemporary is as strongly pro-Boer as ever. We give below the portion of the article Reuter referred to :—

We do not know whether it was on impulse or by design that Mr. Brodrick lead out to the House of Commons last Thursday the full terms of the proclamation which has been issued to the Boers as the result of the cypher negotiations that were permitted to take place between Botha and Kruger. The full text of that proclamation has been promised to the House of Commons, and in the meantime Mr. W. T. Stead, who seems a curious ally for the Government in their new attempt to gauge the mind of Mr. Kruger, has hastened to inform the world that the Government are correct in their diagnosis. For our part we confess to a profound surprise at this latest move of the Government. We always imagined that their view Mr. Kruger had ceased to exist except as a rather contemptible exile. Then why, in the name of all that is sensible, drag him once more into the affairs of a country which he has left ? We heard no mention of Mr. Kruger's name during the Botha-Kitchener negotiations. Whatever view we may take of his flight from the Transvaal—and it is not an act for which we have, both our admiration—it certainly relieved the British Government from the necessity of consulting him in the negotiations preparatory to peace. Lord Kitchener, we presume, was simply acting under the orders of the Government in placing Botha in communication with Kruger. Perhaps he hoped that Mr. Kruger would counsel peace ; if so, it was a strange miscalculation for so wise a man. The only people who have any moral rights to make terms are the Boers are those who are fighting in the field with them. What have we to do with those that have left their country, and are now safely intriguing out of reach of the guns, in the bye-paths of European diplomacy ? The proclamation now issued to the Transvaal and to the House by Mr. Brodrick contains precisely that kind of dangerous advice which proceeds from men who are themselves out of danger. It contrasts very badly indeed with that straight and manly letter to the burghers which Botha issued after the negotiations. The effect of this action of the Government will be to weaken the authority of Botha and produce precisely that revival of Krugerism and Anti-African affairs which the Government ought to have most strenuously avoided. It is an instance of the ignorant carelessness with which the Government have handled South African affairs from first to last. We can imagine nothing more calculated to defeat the peace-party among the Boers, and to strengthen the hands of the irreconcilable faction.

The object of the Government in publishing this manifesto to the world at the present moment is sufficiently plain. It is to prove that the proposals for peace put forward by the Liberals through Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman are mere dreams. "You all agree that annexation is inevitable"—so they argue—"but see that precisely what the Boers are fighting against ! They will have nothing but independence." Really, the Government cannot have it both ways. In the first breath they argue that the Liberals and the Boers are hand-and-glove together—that a vote given to the Liberals is a vote to the Boers and so forth. In the next they tell us that the Liberals and the Boers are entirely at issue—that the Liberals want one thing and the Boers another. By such criticisms—whatever they choose —our witness are unwrung. We do not know what the Boers want, and we do not profess to know. Our duty is towards England. That duty is to see that the terms offered to a smaller nation are just and temperate—proportionate to their offence, if offence, there has been, but not inspired by the passions of pride and aggrandisement. Such terms might have been offered by Lord Kitchener in March if Mr. Chamberlain had not interviened. We do not know even now whether, in that case, the Boer Generals in the field, undeflected by the absent counsels of Mr. Kruger, would have accepted anything short of complete independence. It is our business to endeavour that the offer should be made. It is beyond our power to ensure that it would be accepted. These things are beyond the gaze of the wisest among us.

LAW CHARGES OF THE BOMBAY MUNICIPALITY.

APPLICATION FOR AN INTERIM INJUNCTION.

At the High Court, yesterday, before the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Russell, who sat in the Appeal Court, an application was made by Mr. Bahadurji, instructed by Messrs. Daphtary and Ferreira, on behalf of Mr. Joseph Baptista and others, under section 45 of the Specific Relief Act, for an interim injunction, restraining the Municipal Corporation or the Municipal Commissioner from paying the sum of Rs. 21,000 to Messrs. Crawford, Brown and Co., the Municipal Solicitors, for work done in connection with preparing an amended copy of the Municipal Act.

Mr. Bahadurji said the petitioners had applied, under section 45 of the Specific Relief Act, to the Court, asking for an injunction restraining the Municipal Corporation or the Municipal Commissioner from paying the sum of Rs. 21,000, which the Corporation, by a resolution, had authorized the Municipal Commissioner to pay. Mr. Justice Starling had heard the rule "nisi" against the Corporation and the Commissioner. It was argued before his lordship on Monday last and he gave judgment in the matter on Thursday morning, dismissing the rule with costs. Against that judgment an appeal had been filed, on the grounds that Mr. Justice Starling was wrong in dismissing the rule with costs. When that judgment was delivered, Mr. Bahadurji said his clients had written to the Municipal Solicitors, informing them of their intention to appeal and requesting them to consent to the withholding of the payment, and giving notice that, in the event of their not consenting, that the present application would be made to the Appeal Court. In reply, they received a letter stating that the Municipal Solicitors had no instructions in the matter, and could see no reason why payment of the money should be withheld. Mr. Bahadurji said under the circumstances he had to ask their lordships to grant an interim injunction, restraining the Municipal Corporation and the Commissioner from paying away the Rs. 21,000 until such time as the appeal was decided. When the appeal came before the Court the matters would be fully argued.

The Chief Justice : You are asking for an interim injunction, and we have to be satisfied as to what are the facts on which we can grant it. I take it there is a probability that the plaintiffs are entitled to relief, so we have to be satisfied as to that point. Let us see what "locus standi" there is ? There is no property here. There is no franchise, and you have no personal right.

Mr. Bahadurji : I submit we have a personal right in our interest in the Municipal funds, which are funds of the ratepayers.

The Chief Justice : You say these are trust funds. Do you argue that section 539 applies ?

Mr. Bahadurji : I submit not. That section only applies when a breach of trust has been committed. In this case, there is only a threatened breach of trust. Your lordships see section 539 says—

The Chief Justice : You want the direction of the Court on the question of breach of trust.

Mr. Bahadurji : No, we ask for the direction of the Court to prove the Corporation committed an "ultra vires" act.

The Chief Justice : You are asking us to administer the trust by granting the injunction ?

Mr. Bahadurji : It is only a portion of the trust money.

Mr. Bahadurji pointed to a case cited in volume 20 of the Bombay Law Reports, and argued that in the Mofussil section 45 of the Specific Relief Act did not apply. The case he referred to was under the District Municipal Act, which Act said the ratepayers had a right to the property of the rate fund. He submitted that Act was right as showing the ratepayers had an interest in Municipal funds.

Mr. Bahadurji : I do not think that is the point. I only cite it as showing the ratepayers have an interest in the Municipal funds as provided by the Municipal Act.

The Chief Justice : You cannot draw the distinction.

Mr. Bahadurji : I do not know whether your lordship suggests there is any other remedy ?

The Chief Justice : I think you could put the Advocate-General in motion.

Mr. Bahadurji : Only under section 539.

The Chief Justice : I think not. According to the English practice the Attorney-General can proceed. The reason is obvious, because any individual in Bombay could spring up and say "I am going to sue the Corporation," and the Corporation might thereby be subjected to many suits unless there was some provision made to protect it. Of course I do not say this is a case of that sort.

Mr. Bahadurji : We have to proceed under the procedure laid down in the matter.

Mr. Bahadurji : But your lordships have to consider under the Specific Relief Act, clause d, that the application is not for specific or legal relief. I think the proceedings in the Mofussil is a different one and does not apply here. Here the Specific Relief Act is mentioned, under which the ratepayers of the Presidency Towns are entitled to proceed.

The Chief Justice : It does not matter if there are no personal rights that have been infringed. Then there is no remedy.

Mr. Bahadurji : Then your lordship says the ratepayers of Bombay when they contributed to the Municipal funds are deprived under the Act of any right to that fund ?

The Chief Justice : You can bring a suit for refund.

Mr. Bahadurji : No, I do not think that. These moneys are contributed for the ratepayers' benefit,—so are they not entitled to know.

The Chief Justice : The fund is not for your individual benefit. When the money passes from you into the coffers of the Municipality you have no more right to it than any other inhabitant of Bombay.

Mr. Bahadurji : I agree with your lordship, but submit that every inhabitant—even a non-ratepayer —is entitled to see how the funds which are created for his benefit are administered.

The Chief Justice : That is quite right but you must proceed on some method. We have to consider whether you have them under the Specific Relief Act. I cannot agree with your proposition that if you have no power under that Act, that you have power otherwise.

Mr. Bahadurji : That is not my proposition. I say if we have power.

The Chief Justice : Yes if you have personal rights franchise or property. That point has been fully decided.

Mr. Bahadurji : Not in India so far as I know. But in England my impression is that any ratepayer is entitled to join the Attorney General, but there there is no provision made for moving the Advocate-General except under section 539.

The Chief Justice : I think that the case of Evans vs. the Corporation of Berwick covers the point. But supposing you were entitled to sue it would be inconvenient to dispose of an application of this kind on the first application.

Mr. Bahadurji : In granting an interim injunction I submit that no difficulty can arise in regard to the parties paying the money.

Mr. Bahadurji : But if, they have paid away the money.

The Chief Justice : If he gives the undertaking he knows of the obligation.

Mr. Bahadurji : That would satisfy us.

The Chief Justice : Well, I suppose there is no reason why the case should not come on next week. (To Mr. Davar) Will you give an undertaking to refund ?

Mr. Davar, (instructed by Messrs. Crafgie, Lynch, and Owen on behalf of the Corporation) we will give an undertaking not to part with the money for a week. Messrs. Crawford, Brown and Co. will also undertake to refund the money, if it is paid to them.

The Chief Justice then fixed the hearing of the appeal for Friday next, and remarked that the cases of Evans vs. the Corporation of Haverf, the Attorney General vs. Wickham and Pressney vs. the Corporation of Colchester seemed to him to be the most relevant on the point of personal interest. He directed that the costs of the application should be costs in the appeal.

TO-DAY'S CRICKET.

THE weather does not look very hopeful for cricket this afternoon, Jupiter Pluvius having had a long innings during the week and as a resultant the various grounds are all more or less in a sloppy condition. If the weather holds up this morning cricket will be possible on some of the grounds, but on others it is very doubtful if play can take place. The Bombay Gymkhana, I notice, are placing a very strong team in the field against the Hindu Gymkhana on the latter's ground, quite the strongest which has represented them this season. I append the names :—

A. C. Rumboll.	J. S. Milne.
H. P. Hebblethwaite.	W. H. Scott.
P. J. Mead.	C. E. Dumd.
F. M. Heath.	E. E. Coombs.
J. T. Weatherby.	Captain Anderson.
A. R. Burney.

M. F. R. Wingfield of the Oxfords had, I understand, promised to play but he has unfortunately injured his knee very badly whilst playing football and will be kept out of the cricket field for some time.

The Hindu Gymkhana have a strong team this year, but I anticipate a heavy defeat for them in this match.

The Second Eleven of the Gymkhana play the Bombay Volunteer Artillery on the Gymkhana ground, the following being the team :—

C. L. Burns (Captain).	S. N. Powell.
R. Reid.	J. R. Creagh.
S. J. Lithum.	C. M. Ward.
N. R. Medley.	P. L. Wright.
D. B. Binning.	P. J. Arnot.
A. N. Other.

This is a stronger side than that which did duty against the B. B. & C. I. Railway last Saturday and an interesting match should result.

The B. B. & C. I. Railway, who easily defeated the Royal Artillery at Colaba on Thursday, meet the Islam Gymkhana on the latter's ground, and as the Parsee Gymkhana will also be playing on the home ground, their opponents being the Marine Battalion, a large number of lovers of the game will probably wend their way to the grounds of the three native Gymkhanas.

CRICKET NOTES.

MEHERHOMJEE, the Parsee player, who made over 140 runs for the Baronet C. C. in the second innings against the Poona Gymkhana 1st week, is a very promising batsman and will, I understand, be given a trial in the Parsee team this year on the strength of his excellent display at Poona. He has before now scored largely in important matches and in 1898 made 106 for the Parsees against Sindh, the latter team including C. Wigram, H. D. Watson, J. B. Wood, F. G. Turner, and other well-known cricketers. C. M. Patel is batting in very good form this season and on each occasion that he has gone to the wickets for the B. B. and C. I. Railway C. C. has scored heavily. His bowling is as effective as ever, and the Parsee Selection Committee should keep their eye on him. I do not know of any bowler playing in Bombay cricket at the present time more likely to break up a long partnership than this player, his tempting slows invariably resulting in the batsmen falling into the trap he has laid for them. H. Cheetham is up in Bombay for a few days and will, I understand, be available for the Presidency match next month should his services be required. He has not been able to obtain much practise, however, and may not be in form.

I hear that the G. I. P. Railway are to raise a team for a few matches this season, later on under the captaincy of A. C. Rumboll. The experiment should prove a success as there is the nucleus of a good side available in Rumboll, F. Clark, W. B. George, and one or two others.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COMPETITION.

ONE of the largest and most comprehensive competitions that has ever been held in connection with photography, is probably the "Tab" Photo Xmas Card Competition which, we notice, is open to all sorts and conditions of photographers. A glance through the list of prizes shows us that it has been arranged so as to encourage the merest "tyro" as well as the practised hand. Seventy-five hundred and fifty cash prizes will be awarded, amounting to the nett value of £317-6s. The competition is divided into two classes, amateur and professional, and some idea of its proportions may be gained when we mention that in the amateur class, for quarter plate prints alone, there are 34 prizes to be awarded, the first of which amounts to £10. It is not restricted to any special printing process nor to the use of any particular apparatus, but has been designed solely for the purpose of encouraging photographers, who are working for the love of, and in the true interests of, the photographic art, to adopt a more artistic greeting card than heretofore. All that is necessary is to send in the competing prints mounted in or on the "Tab" series of Photo Xmas Cards Manufactured by Messrs. Chas. Tyler and England Bros., Ltd.

Amateur Competition.—Arthur C. Brookes, Editor "Photographic" Dealer ; Horsley Hinton, Editor, "Amateur Photographer" ; J. Craig Annan, of Glasgow.

HADRAMAUT NEWS.

From news received by some of the leading merchants here, we learn that some months ago, the Tribes of Wadi Dawan, named Al-Amodeya, had rebelled against H. H. Sultan Awadh bin Omar Al Kaiti of Byderabad, Deccan, "Sultan of Makalla," but subsequently they were severely punished.

Now, we are informed that during the absence of the Sultan on pilgrimage to Mecca, these rebellious people had re-assembled into camps consisted of 2000 men, and on the 16th of Safer 1319 they attacked 3 villages, one named "Balad al-Karafo," the other is "Awra," the third is called "Rubat." They killed, plundered and spoiled all the villages. They even entered and spoiled the houses of the respectable Sayed, whom the Hadhramis look upon as their spiritual heads or natural leaders.

After staying there for 14 hours, they were attacked by the Sultan's men, helped by the Yafaes tribes under the command of Omer Ba Hamid Ba Surrab, Salim and Mobsin-Makharish, and in a short struggle they were driven away and fled up to the hills, losing 30 men killed, many wounded, the villages were regained and all is quiet.

This news reached Makalla just on the same day as the Sultan's arrived there. He left Aden for Makalla on the 25th ultimo.—"Aden Gazette" (July 16th) not more than equal, to the 12 of Admiral Noel. In cruisers the numerical disparity is not so marked, both sides having five first-class cruisers, while B has seven second-class cruisers, one third-class, and one torpedo gunboat, against five second-class cruisers, two third-class, and one torpedo gunboat assigned to X. The special significance C and D are also stronger than Y and Z, especially in destroyers, the former having 24 destroyers in all against 20 assigned to the latter. The remaining 16 destroyers not otherwise accounted for in this enumeration are divided equally between the two main fleets. I hear that 80,000 tons of coal have been ordered for the manœuvres, so that the Admiralty mean to do the thing well. Lieutenant Carlyon Bellairs, R.N., whose Society of Arts paper on the coal problem in its relation to the Empire at large attracted a good deal of notice and was favourably commented upon in the "Bombay Gazette" again attends the manœuvres as one of the special correspondents of the "Times," his colleague being Mr. Thursfield, who though not a seaman by profession long ago established a claim to be considered a reliable expert in all that relates to our first line of defence. He will be on board one of the flagships and Lieutenant Bellairs on the other. On the occasion of manœuvres the representatives of the leading journal are accommodated on the flagships.

MR. MACLEAN ON LORDS SALISBURY AND RANDOLPH CHURCHILL.

Mr. Maclean continues in the "Manchester Guardian" of last Wednesday his personal recollections of life in the House of Commons and throws a good deal of fresh light on Lord Randolph Churchill's meteoric rise to power. Indeed the account of the fight between the leader of the Fourth Party and the "old gang" has never previously been told from the inside, and Mr. Maclean's description of the incidents in question is not only highly interesting in itself but is most timely in appearing, as it does, at a moment when the air is thick with talk about cabals in the other party. Although Mr. Maclean and Lord Randolph Churchill were at first great friends and worked well together, the former struck against the attempt to oust Lord Salisbury from the leadership. Mr. Maclean shrank from the confusion which would be caused by a domestic revolution in the Conservative party and gave notice of a motion in the National Union Council, which virtually upheld Lord Salisbury's rule. The facts are too long to be summarised here and I must refer your readers to the article which is throughout very interesting reading. Here is an interesting sketch which Mr. Maclean gives of the Prime Minister. "I had," says Mr. Maclean, "a great respect and esteem for Lord Salisbury, whose public services I recognised and whose claims on public confidence were only marred by his haughty reserve and by the intellectual scorn which made him often blurt out plain truths which perplexed and disconcerted his followers. The Prime Minister is really a very broadminded man. He likes to talk frankly even on matters of high politics with anyone who he thinks has really made a study of public affairs, and he is pleased with the impact of a fresh mind upon his own. But even when he seems to be most careless in conversation his intelligence is wide awake and he pounces mercilessly on any slip made by the person he is talking to. While, too, he is very free in the expression of his opinions, he always reserves his authority, and is firmly convinced that the caste to which he belongs has the sole right to rule the country." Mr. Maclean tells a lively anecdote about Lord Randolph who, it is well known, was no respecter of persons and he actually had the audacity to refer to two highly respected but exceedingly dull members of the Conservative Cabinet as "Marshall and Snelgrove. At a dinner party happening to sit next to Lord Randolph, Mr. Maclean asked him, as he had become a great sportsman, what he thought of the poisoning of Orme. This brought forth a characteristic outburst: "Oh!" said Lord Randolph, "it's that Duke of Westminster. He thinks he has a divine right to win races, and that his horses shouldn't be ill like other people's. Depend upon it, I have seen as much of Dukes as anybody; they are the greatest set of fools Heaven ever created, not excepting even the "Royalties."

BISHOP WELLDON AND THE TONE OF INDIAN SOCIETY.

The Bishop of Calcutta, who is really having a wonderful "holiday," went down to Manchester on Monday to fulfil one of the numerous engagements rather thoughtlessly pressed upon him by his admirers. The occasion of his visit to Cottonopolis was a meeting in the Lord Mayor's Parlour of the Town Hall, on behalf of the Indian Church Aid Association, a Society which does not bear the taint, as some consider it, of "missionaryism" if I may coin a word, but cares for the moral and spiritual welfare of our own countrymen in the East. Dr. Welldon in the course of a capital address took the opportunity of trying to dispel two illusions which as I myself can testify are very prevalent—first that all Britishers in India are well off and second that most of them are extremely immoral. With reference to the former mistake his lordship combated the notion that Europeans in India are well able to find "the means of grace" for themselves. The great difficulty with which the Church Aid Association was faced was, he explained, that of providing scattered and remote settlements with spiritual maintenance. He put forward the claim of settlements which are constantly arising and increasing—ing upon the rapidly developing lines of railway all over India. Then there is the case of the planters—persons engaged upon tea, indigo, and other plantations in different parts of India. Respecting the misrepresentation of Indian Society he begged his hearers to cast away the idea that the European residents in India were living immoral lives. His experience was quite the contrary. The tone of the society of India was as high as it was at home, and even in the matter of religion he had found in many parts of India devout laymen who, Sunday by Sunday, had been carrying on regularly divine service in places to which the chaplain's visits were very rare. It is a pity that more publicity has not been given to these remarks of the Bishop and that the detailed reports of his speech should have been mainly confined to the local newspapers. Dr. Welldon put it to the meeting with the full force of conviction that unless some help were given to the creation and maintenance of schools for the Eurasians, and to some extent for the poor Europeans in India, the children of both classes would be gradually lost to the Church. He believed if the Church of England could only be adequately provided with the ministries she required the future of India would be found ultimately to lie in her hands. He looked forward to the day—it might be distant but it was sure to come—when the people of India would take their stand and advance with the advancing nations of the world, and it would be part of that great amelioration that they should not discard or disown the faith which was the faith of the dominant races of mankind, but should see how the destinies of their own country were bound up with the religion of Christ, which was Oriental in its birth—the religion of the West, not of the East, but which would go home to the East yet with a power and vigour such as had as yet had no example.

OLLA PODRIDA.

Mr. H. W. Lawson has decided not to again come forward as Liberal Candidate for North East Bethnal Green, where at the last General Election he was, notwithstanding his special claims to the favour of an East End Constituency, rather badly beaten by Sir Muncherjee Bhownagree. The Liberals are about to adopt as their champion and ex-vestryman, Mr. Edward Smith, who is said to be very popular in the division.

The cruiser Racoon, Commander Alfred Grant, recently back from the East Indies has been paid off into the Dockyard Reserve at Sheerness. The gunboat Pigeon, Lieutenant and Commander O. V. de Satge, has arrived at Gibraltar from Bombay and is shortly expected at home to pay off. The son of Lieutenant-Colonel Salisbury Simpson (formerly of the Marine Battalion) has been posted as midshipman to the Jupiter, one of the vessels taking part in the manœuvres.

THE LIBERAL SPLIT.

MEETING AT THE REFORM CLUB.

IMPORTANT SPEECHES.

A GENERAL meeting of the Liberal members of the House of Commons was held on July 9, in the smoking-room of the Reform Club. One hundred and sixty-three members attended. Mr. J. E. Barlow, Mr. J. M. Logan, Sir U. Kay-Shuttleworth, Sir F. Mappin, Mr. Mark Oldroyd, Mr. B. Pickard, Mr. S. Smith, were prevented from attending by indisposition. The meeting was strictly private, but late in the evening an official report was issued, from which it appears that—

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who received a very cordial welcome, said: Recent events have disclosed a serious discord in the party which hinders united action, or, at least, makes it exceedingly difficult, and as it is my prime duty, as well as my chief desire, to maintain harmony in the party—(hear, hear)—the harmony without which it cannot fulfil the part it ought to play, and cannot exercise its due influence in the State—(hear, hear)—it becomes necessary for me to ascertain (and this is the only means that I know of ascertaining it) whether I still retain your confidence, the confidence which is absolutely indispensable to any effort that I make to achieve the purpose of maintaining harmony in the party. (Cheers.) This is the sole object for which this meeting has been called. Whatever I may have to say to-day I have no complaint at all to make on my own personal account. But it is in relation to South Africa and the war gentlemen, that we are supposed to be so hopelessly divided. I am not one of those—and I shall show it in a few minutes—who believe in that hopeless division. (Hear, hear). I believe it is greatly exaggerated. (Cheers.) The subject of first importance at present is not the origin of the war nor the past conduct of the war—it is the present administration of affairs and above all the future policy to be adopted in South Africa. The whole matter, however—and I would impress this strongly upon you that we should never forget it—rests not within our responsibility, but in the responsibility of his Majesty's Government. (Hear hear.) Do I not express the opinions of four-fifths of the party when I say that every effort should be made to bring the war to a speedy and victorious conclusion; but that, as I think I have said in the House of Commons on one occasion, while we have the sword in one hand we should hold out the olive branch with the other, and that there should be made known reasonable terms of peace? It is now said that the Boers are obdurate and will listen to nothing but impossible terms, and any terms may be regarded as impossible which would actually place them in a better position at the close of the war than that which they occupied at the beginning. Yet it is not the less wise policy for us to make known our generous and kindly intentions regarding the future. Let us avoid in military operations any action likely to leave behind it a feeling of unnecessary harshness. Let us announce a generous amnesty for all British subjects who have taken up arms—(Hear, hear)—and, lastly, let us promise that so soon as ordinary social conditions are re-established on the ending of the war after a short interval of irregular government, the free independent system of colonial self-government, so familiar to us, shall be set up, leading ultimately, if the several States so desire, to a Federal Constitution in South Africa. (Hear, hear.) Well, gentlemen, that is not an exhaustive programme, but at any rate I think I am right in claiming that on these several points there is little or no difference among us. (Cheers.) There may be great differences in detail, but none in the general principle. If we are effectively to criticise and influence the ultimate settlement we must be united. Why, then, gentlemen, are we not united! With this community of view on the general question, which I believe in thoroughly, why are we still not united and not harmonious? Gentlemen, I think it my duty to speak plainly. We are divided not on account of real and essential divergencies of opinion, but because of the operation of certain personal antagonisms which for the last half-dozen years have disturbed and paralysed the Liberal Party in Parliament. In the interests of those antagonisms grounds of difference are eagerly sought out the importance of smaller differences are exaggerated and energies which ought to be political have been personal. (Hear, hear). Differences of political opinion with a party are usually capable of being adjusted, and even if they are not adjusted they do not interfere with the general agreement. But in this case what I am speaking to does not represent genuine opinion—it manufactures differences for its own purpose. I am no partisan of any side in these antagonisms I speak of; they are confined to a few individuals, very honest, very energetic, and very persistent. They do not know the infinite mischief they do to the party which they imagine they serve. (Hear, hear.) Well, gentlemen I am here to say to you deliberately and emphatically that we shall never restore healthy efficiency to the Liberal Party in the House of Commons unless these cabals are put down, and I appeal to all solid earnest loyal men—and I am sure I see no other here—to lend their aid in extinguishing them. I can make this appeal with the more frankness and confidence because I am not aware that these little machinations have ever been directed personally against myself. (Hear, hear.) This is what I have to say to you to-day, gentlemen. I make this appeal to you against courses which I see more clearly every day that I live to be fatal to the efficiency of the party. You know me, you know my faults and my good points. If I have any—(hear, hear)—you know my views on all public subjects, you know my course of conduct, which has been perfectly consistent throughout—it is for you to say whether I enjoy that confidence which my position necessarily requires. (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

Sir J. Kitson moved a resolution to the effect that the meeting desired to express to Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman its most hearty appreciation of his services and continued confidence in his leadership.

Sir Joseph Pease seconded the resolution, which was supported by Dr. Farquharson, Mr. Alfred Thomas, and Mr. Fenwick.

MR. ASQUITH.

Sir William Harcourt having spoken, Mr. Asquith who was very cordially received, said: Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, and gentlemen, in rising to give to this resolution my most cordial support, I think I may, in the first instance, be permitted to say that I do not believe there is any man in the party who has better reason than myself to know and admire the tact, the temper, the skill the unsleeping devotion to duty, and the unrelaxing pursuit of every means by which peace and unity could be maintained in the party which has animated Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman from the very day of his election. You have spoken in your opening remarks, as Sir William Harcourt did just now, of the existance of cabals and cliques and intrigues somewhere in the party. Of these things I can honestly say, speaking for myself, I know nothing. (Hear, hear.) If they exist, they exist, not only without my consent, but I can sincerely say it, without my knowledge. (Hear, hear.) And, sir, nothing has suprised and pained me more in the whole of my political life than that I should have been supposed capable, under the pretext of performing a public duty, and, as I have seen it kindly suggested, for the purpose of winning the transient applause of the Tory Press, I should have been supposed capable of lending myself to an intrigue to oust from the leadership of our party one by whose side I have sat for years—(hear, hear)—whose counsels and whose confidence I have shared, and whose exertions in one of the most thankless tasks ever allotted to a man I have warmly appreciated, and to the best of my powers and opportunities consistently supported. (Hear, hear.) Sir, nobody in this room says such things; nobody in this room believes them. (Hear, hear.) I am almost ashamed—indeed, I should be ashamed if I could not do it with a clear conscience—to appeal to those old friends and colleagues whom I see around me, among whom I have sat and worked and fought for 15 years in the House of Commons, to believe that in whatever I have done or in whatever I may do I am not actuated by any indirect or personal motive—(hear, hear)—but by an honest sense of the duty which, rightly or wrongly, I conceive that I owe to the party and the country. (Hear, hear.) Having said so much, I hope without undue egotism, about myself, let me say one or two words upon another aspect of the same distasteful topic. For as we are met here as a party meeting, it is, I think, eminently desirable that what I may call the miasma of suspicion with which the air is charged should be effectually and once for all dissipated. (Hear, hear.) I often see it stated in the Press that the whole source of the Liberal troubles and distractions is to be found in the condition of the Opposition front bench. That front bench, upon which you and I, sir, have sat for a good many years side by side, is supposed by these imaginative gentlemen to be a hotbed of personal rivalry and rancour. Well, is it so? A more ridiculous delusion never entered into the brain of man. (Hear, hear.) I see around me most of my honourable and right honourable friends who occupy that bench, and I can appeal to them to bear me out when I say that during the three years in which you have occupied the leadership, though we have differed—differed in some cases deeply, and even acutely, just as our friends behind have—upon issues particularly arising out of the war, yet there has never been a body of men who have worked together with more cordial personal good-will than we who have sat under your leadership on that bench; but in relation to his war there has been from the first, and there is now—though, I hope, in ever-diminishing degree—a difference of opinion which rests upon honest, deep conviction—(hear, hear)—a difference which is not to be put down to the petty jealousies, wrangles, and rivalries of X and Y, but a difference such as honourable men actuated by public motives, and full of loyalty to Liberal principles and to the Liberal Party, may reasonably and conscientiously entertain. It is no good when honest differences of opinion do exist to say that they do not, or to fancy that you can get rid of them by resorting to ambiguous formulæ. Do you remember—members of the last Parliament will remember—a celebrated amendment drawn by the combined wisdom of the whole front Opposition bench and entrusted to the hands of noble friend Lord Edward Fitzmaurice? Gentlemen, it was a masterpiece—it was a miracle of draughtsmanship—(laughter and cheers)—the proof of which was that every one of us whatever our opinions were able to go into the lobby in support of it. But did it do us any good? Did it take anybody in? No, of course it did not. Expedients of that kind plausible as they may seem and honestly adopted as they have been with the best intentions by us on past occasions—expedients of that kind are I venture to tell you more pernicious in the long run to party unity and loyalty than the frank acknowledgment and free expression of sincerely entertained differences of opinion. I speak I am sure you will acknowledge as one who always in the past done everything he could to promote party peace. (Hear, hear.) Yes, as one who has held his tongue when the temptation to speak was almost irresistible, who has sometimes even abstained from voting when he would not have been sorry to have gone into the division lobby. That these differences may diminish day by day, that they may ultimately and in good time disappear, is the hope and prayer of every good Liberal in this room. But, gentlemen, things being as they are, I venture to claim here for myself and for others full and unfettered liberty in this matter, from time to time to express and to act upon our honestly entertained convictions without any imputation of party disloyalty. (Hear, hear.) We are all of us here, whatever opinions we may hold about the war, we are all of us, without any distinction of person or of section, devoted to our party. (Hear, hear.) We love its traditions, we glory in its name, and it is our hope and will be our aim, that it shall be in the future, as it has been in the past, the most potent and fruitful instrument of national progress. Gentlemen, in the large and liberal spirit which is one of its best traditions, let us work together for that end! (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

Sir E. J. Reed: Sir, I only rise to endeavour to elicit from you before we separate an explanation on one single point of your speech. You spoke of a general amnesty to the Cape rebels, it being one of those things which the whole party might combine upon. What I wish to point out is this: it seems to me that it would be a very disastrous encouragement to disloyalty at the Cape if it were given out that however many of them may rebel, they will be all amnestied at the end of the war. I think amnesty is a most excellent thing at the end of a war, but under existing circumstances it seems to me to be fraught with very great peril to announce such a thing. I shall be glad to hear something to clear that point up.

SIR H. GREY.

Sir Edward Grey: I think before Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman answers that question it may be well to suggest to the meeting that we had perhaps better not go into details. (Hear, hear.) I adhere, as you know, to the views of my friend Mr. Asquith with regard to the war, and I adhere to all that he has stated this afternoon, and I am convinced that the result of this meeting must be to register the fact that on all questions of South African policy differences of opinion, or the expression of differences of opinion, is what is to be expected in the future. But let us leave them in the future to develop themselves. It is impossible for us to discuss differences of opinion this afternoon. As far as I am concerned in no independent action that I have taken have I ever been affected by anything but genuine opinion, but I believe those personal cross-currents could only be swept away by those of us who have strong opinions expressing them freely. I am convinced there may be a vague resolution about South Africa which might unite all of us, but when you come to particular motions in the House of Commons, when you come to particular questions, the view we have taken about the war is sure to colour the view which we take upon that occasion in the House of Commons. I feel also very strongly that in this crisis in the affairs of the country—for I is a crisis in the affairs of the country as well as in our own party—there are two things of which no one can think; one is, no man can think of retiring from public life and the other is that no man can think of going over to support the present Government. (Hear, hear.) I for one am convinced that they are a worn out Government, that they have neither foresight nor grasp in things abroad, and have no conviction in things at home. That is my honest opinion, but to be found in them. But I am sure it is only by being true to our own opinions when we hold them strongly that we can, each section of us, develop that strength, that self-respect, and that reputation in the country which, when we are agreed, will enable us to be of use to each other. (Hear, hear.)

Sir James Kitson then put the resolution, which was carried unanimously amid great cheering.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman returned thanks and proposed a vote of thanks to the committee of the Reform Club for the use of the room. The proceedings then terminated.

BISHOP WELLDON ON CHURCH WORK IN INDIA.

THE Bishop of Calcutta addressed a large meeting in the Lord Mayor's Parlour of the Manchester Town Hall on July 8 on the subject of Church work in India. The Dean of Manchester (Dr. Maclure) presided, and letters expressing sympathy with the object of the meeting had been received from the Bishop of Manchester (Dr. Moorhouse), Sir W. H. Houldsworth M. P., and Sir Frank Forbes Adam.

Dr. Welldon said the object of the Indian Church Aid Association was such that persons who were not strong advocates of Christian missions—at least not in India—but who cared for the moral and spiritual character of the British Empire there, might give it their full and generous support. He believed that the state of India constituted an irresistible appeal to the sympathy of all Christian Englishmen. Of the connection between Manchester and India it was not necessary that he should say more than two or three words. Shortly before he left Calcutta he received from one of the best known men of business there a letter telling him of Lancashire's responsibility to India by reason of the great extent to which the products of the Lancashire mills went to India. The principle on which the Indian Church Aid Association rested its claim was simply this—that where material interests were involved, where commercial intercourse existed, and where material prosperity accrued, there moral and religious responsibility was involved. That Manchester had nobly recognised its responsibility in the time of the last two famines in India he would gratefully and respectfully acknowledge, but his object was to show that the call of that vast country, India, for an increased effort on behalf not of the natives only but of the Europeans and Eurasians who lived there was an urgent and indeed an imperative demand. The Government of India rested not solely upon forces—force of arms or force of brain—but primarily and essentially upon character. That Government could not stand justly in the sight of God or man unless the ruling people, charge with so great an influence for good or evil, set a high moral example to the population over which they ruled. Therefore the care of the Europeans and the Eurasians in India, the effort to make them worthy—and especially the Europeans—of the position to which they had been called, was an effort that touched the very heart and life of the British Empire in India. He thought no merchant in India and certainly no Christain, ought ever to use language of offence or reproach in respect of the religion of that Country. There was a mistake which was sometimes made as to the wealth of the British residents in India. He did not agree with those who assumed that the Europeans were well able to find the means of grace for themselves. The great difficulty; with which the Church Aid Association was faced was that of providing scattered and remote settlements with spiritual maintenance. The first claim he would submit to the meeting was the claim of settlements which were constantly arising and increasing upon the rapidly developing lines of railway all over India. Then there was the case of the planters—persons engaged upon tea, indigo, and other plantations in different parts of India. A great deal of harm had been done by the misrepresentation of Indian society. He begged his hearers to cast away the idea that the European residents in India were living immoral lives. His experience was quite the contrary. The tone of the society of India was as high as it was at home, and even in the matter of religion he had found in many parts of India devout laymen who, Sunday by Sunday, had been carrying on regularly divine service in places to which the chaplain's visits were very rare. The Eurasians, created a problem of exceptional difficulty. They were a class singularly unable to help themselves, and it was necessary to provide them with a parochial and educational organisation. He put it to the meeting with the full force of conviction that unless some help were given to the creation and maintenance of schools for the Eurasians, and to some extent for the poor Europeans in India, the children of both classes would be gradually lost to the Church. He believed if the Church of England could only be adequately provided with the ministries she required the future of India would be found ultimately to lie in her hands. He looked forward to the day—it might be distant, but it was sure to come—when the people of India would take their stand and advance with the advancing nations of the world, and it would be part of that great amelioration that they should not discard or disown the faith which was the faith of the dominant races of mankind, but should see how the destinies of their own country were bound up with the religion of Christ, which was Oriental in its birth—the religion of the West, not of the East, but which would go home to the East yet with a power and vigour such as it had as yet had no example.

THE FRENCH NAVY.

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF THE GUSTAVE ZEDE

PARIS, July 8.—In an article in the "Autorite" M. Paul de Cassagnac, while expressing his desire to see the French fleet powerful, states his opinion that France may feel the sore need on her eastern frontier of whatever she may give in excess to her Navy and Colonies. "And," says M. de Cassagnac, "that is where her real danger is, and there only."—Reuter.

Paris, July 8.—The "Journal" publishes a telegram from Toulon giving some details concerning the action of the Gustave Zede in the naval manœuvres. When the Gustave Zede arrived off Ajaccio on Friday she approached so near to the squadron that her commander was able to locate the positions of all the ships. The submarine had even to sink hastily to escape being run into by a torpedo boat. Admiral Gervais had indirectly warned the squadrons of the participation of the Gustave Zede by recommending it to act as if threatened by an attack by submarines.

At six o'clock on Friday evening, the Gustave Zede left Ajaccio and arrived at Toulon at eleven o'clock on Saturday morning her speed averaging eight knots an hour. The conditions of living on board have been considerably improved but the work of navigating the vessel is still tiring and it may become necessary to carry on board a torpedo cruiser sufficient men to relieve the crew at least every twenty-four hours. At all events, the result of the first trial has been splendid, adds the "Journal."—Reuter.

MR. MACLEAN AND THE UNIONIST PARTY.

HE QUITS THE CARLTON CLUB.

MR. J. M. MACLEAN, late M. P. for Cardiff, has written to the Secretary of the Carlton Club, requesting that his name may be removed from the list of members of that club. Mr. Maclean's connection with the club dates from more than twenty years back. He points out that had he been able to fight for his seat at the General Election he would have made it clear that he owed no allegiance to the present Government. He says he sees with dismay that the Government is committing itself in South Africa to a policy of extermination, and he deplores the profligate waste of money and the helpless blundering of our military administration, which has earned for England the scorn of the civilised world. He thinks it possible that he may still play a useful part in public life, because a ray of light has at last penetrated the clouds that hung over the Liberal party. The recent speech and action of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman have Mr. Maclean's warmest sympathy and support. They have, he states, immensely strengthened Sir Henry's personal authority and have put new life and hope into Liberals throughout the realm.

A TELEGRAM from Cadiz published by the Madrid "Correspondencia" says that much comment is being excited by the approaching visit of a German squadron to that port and by the fact that the visit will coincide with the arrival of the Russian and French squadron. Telegram adds that at the same time the British naval force at Gibraltar is being increased and expresses surprise that the Madrid press has not announced the coming of these squadrons.

FOR BABY'S SKIN SCALP AND HAIR

Something for Mothers to Think About

EVERY CHILD born into the world with an inherited or early developed tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, scalp, and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest, and most effective treatment available.

That warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP to cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales and gentle applications of CUTICURA Ointment to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, to be followed in the severest cases by mild doses of CUTICURA RESOLVENT are all that can be desired for the alleviation of the suffering of skin-tortured infants and children and the comfort of worn-out worried mothers has been demonstrated in countless homes in every land. But I am sure it is only by being true to our own opinions when we hold them strongly that we can, each section of us, develop that strength, that self-respect, and that reputation in the country which, when we are agreed, will enable us to be of use to each other. (Hear, hear.)

Sir James Kitson then put the resolution, which was carried unanimously amid great cheering.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman returned thanks and proposed a vote of thanks to the committee of the Reform Club for the use of the room. The proceedings then terminated.

Their absolute safety, purity, and sweetness, instantaneous and grateful relief, speedy cure, and great economy leave nothing more to be desired by anxious parents.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humour. Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP, to cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA Ointment, to instantly allay itching and irritation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, to cool and cleanse the blood. GOSSIP OF THE WEEK.

LONDON, JULY 12.

The mystery of King Alfred's last resting-place reminds us that England has not always loved its kings and queens in death. It would not have been quite true for the poet to write: "Rattle his bones over the stones, He's only a king whom nobody owns," for our monarchs have generally been laid to rest with great show of honour. But the heads that wore crowns in life have lain uneasily in death. Alfred's bones have been allowed no rest in the thousand years he has been asleep, guarded and hidden as they had been by faithful monks, and scattered by Puritan soldiers. It was not until the passing of the Stuarts, which brought so many things to an end, that the practice of breaking up the graves of kings was stopped. Few things in England, in the earlier centuries, were held in such scant respect as the grave of a king.

England, indeed, has not always sheltered the remains of the monarchs who have ruled over it. Nine people out of ten, if asked where our kings and queens are buried, would say Westminster Abbey. But they would be wrong. It is one of the things which surprises us as soon as we look into them. Not half our rulers lie in the Abbey. Three queens—Mary, Elizabeth, and Anne—are there, but most of our kings have been buried elsewhere. Some have gone out of England altogether, and their graves must be sought in Germany and France; and others sleep in the great provincial towns and cities. Only one Hanoverian lies in the Abbey. The dust of George the Second mingles with that of good Queen Caroline, the wife he never really loved.

It seems to have been taken for granted when Edward the Confessor built the abbey that it would be the resting-place for all our kings, but it was not, as a matter of fact, until eight reigns after the Confessor that another king was buried on the same site. The Conqueror, who came into England from without, went out of it to sleep his last sleep in his favourite town of Caen; and the body of his son, our second Norman king, has had little peace in England. The monument of William II. has been moved all round Winchester Cathedral, until now it probably shelters none of his bones, which the Puritans flung from the windows. The burial place of Henry the First is covered by a prison, and the grave of his successor, Stephen, at Faver-ham, was broken open by thieves for the gain of the leaden coffin. The coffin of Edward the Confessor was similarly robbed hundreds of years later, and a gold chain and crucifix taken from it was sold during the lifetime of Queen Victoria at a public auction in London.

Edward the First was disappointed in his death. He wanted to die in a great convulsion, but he passed peacefully away, an old man and infirm, at a little village on the Solway Firth. He asked that his flesh should be boiled and his bones carried at the head of the English Army till Scotland was subdued; but instead they were buried at Waltham Abbey with great pomp, but brought to Westminster after fifteen weeks. His excitable spirit had some concessions made to it, however, for his body was perpetually "on the move" during the fourteenth century. His successor, Edward II., was buried at Gloucester, and then, for the first time, two Kings were buried at Westminster in succession—Edward III. and Richard II. The tomb of Richard had an opening through which the curious could gaze on his bones, but this was closed, and the next time his bones were exposed was when they were taken out to be measured, and the skull was photographed.

Henry IV. lies at Canterbury, where he was allowed to rest in peace for 400 years. Then, five years before Queen Victoria came to the throne, an amazing thing happened. The authorities opened the grave to see if the King were really there. The marble pavement was dug up, and unsentimental men sawed through the middle of the wooden coffin, cut out a great piece of the leaden shroud, dragged off five thicknesses of leather in which the body had been rolled, and—gazed on the face of the King who had lived four centuries before! As they gazed, the features of Henry the Fourth fell to dust, and the authorities were satisfied that the King was there indeed.

So it has ever been. The remains of Edward IV. were buried at Windsor in the 15th century, disturbed in the 17th, and again violated in the 18th. Richard III., buried at Leicester after Bosworth Field, was exhumed, and his body thrown aside, his coffin becoming a horse-trough at an inn. The tomb of Henry VII., in the Abbey, has been mutilated, and that of Henry VIII., buried with great pomp at Windsor, was broken open by a soldier, who took out a bone and made a knife-haft of it. The grave of Edward VI., in the Abbey, has been repeatedly disturbed, the wooden shell broken up, and the leaden coffin rent.

Time has been no gentler with our queens—did not Pepys boast that he had kissed the mouth of Queen Katherine, wife of Henry V. more than two centuries after she died! Mary was buried at Peterborough, but her grave was disturbed and she was removed to the Abbey, where Dean Stanley found in 1869 that her coffin was being crushed by that of Queen Elizabeth—as if the fight between the sisters were not bitter enough in life! The chief of the Stuarts rests at Windsor. Fate has been kindly to him in his death. He had little peace in his life but on that snowy morning when a little band of followers carried his coffin containing the body with the head sewn on to St. George's Chapel the storm came to an end and his grave, at any rate, has been a place of peace.

Two men of very different types who, whatever they are now, were once good friends, celebrated their birthdays on Friday, Mr. Stead was fifty-two, and Mr. Rhodes was forty-eight. It is hard to think of Mr. Rhodes as a young man, yet, when we consider it, Africa is peculiarly the young man's land. Wolseley, Gordon, and Kitchener all found fame there when they were young. Mr. Rhodes was a young man of twenty-three when he first set foot in the land which has brought him fame and millions. An obscure rector's son from a country parish, he had gone out, as so many other men have gone out, to die, and he stayed, as so many other men have stayed, to live.

South Africa changed the colour of his cheeks. The clergyman's son who had been tenderly reared in the rectory at Bishop's Stortford became a working man in Africa, and found a new lease of life, and power undreamt of, in the gold diggings which had changed the face of a continent and turned the course of history. Time was, though it is not easy to imagine it now, when Cecil Rhodes was an unknown name in politics. The man who bore it had his sleeves rolled up in Griqualand, where he staked all he had in a few claims which he shared with his brother Herbert—the brother who met with a tragic death while hunting elephants. He was slowly building up a position for himself in Africa. He tried cotton-planting as a road to wealth, and spent his energies in many things—an ice-making machine for one.

Few men have triumphed over obstacles with the ease of Mr. Rhodes. He has his own way of turning enemies into friends. He arrived late one night at a Boer camp in Bechuanaland. The Boers were roused and there was talk "of blood. Don't talk nonsense," said Mr. Rhodes to their leader. "I'm very hungry—give me some food." He stayed in the camp a week, and just before he came away he became godfather to the commandant's grandchild born while he was living amongst them. But even Mr. Rhodes is outwitted sometimes. There is a story of a young man who owned a paper in which he persistently denounced the Colossus. Mr. Rhodes sent for him, the story goes, and suggested a subsidy. The young man refused. "You are besieged by a gang of blackmailers," he told Mr. Rhodes, "but I am not one of them. You can't buy me up." The great man was angry. "I can ruin you and you rag," he shouted. "Oh, no, you can't", the young editor retorted; "it's my rag and I shall write what I like in it. If you have nothing else to tell me, good-day."

Mr. Rhodes is rich beyond the dreams of ordinary men, but he has not sought riches for his own selfish ends. Even his enemies confess that there is nothing sordid in his aims. When Gordon told him of the roomful of gold which the Chinese Government had offered him after the suppression of the Taeping Rebellion, Mr. Rhodes expressed surprise that he had refused it. "It is no use our having big ideas," he said, "unless we have the money to carry them out." Mr. Rhodes has spent a fortune in building rail-ways and suppressing rebellions—and reaped a second fortune in return. Those who know him speak of him as the most generous of men. "What would you like?" he asked one of his men whose services he wanted to recognise. The man asked that his lease of a thousand acres should be lengthened a bit. "Nonsense," said Mr. Rhodes, "I can't lengthen the lease, but I will tell you what I can do. I can cancel it, and give you the land for yourself."

Mr. Rhodes would be interested in the visit of Mr. Sauer to England. In the days when they loved each other Mr. Sauer and Mr. Rhodes were with General Gordon in Basutoland, where the natives regarded Gordon as the most important man, Mr. Rhodes chaffed Gordon on the subject. You ought to explain that the big man is Mr. Sauer he said Mr. Sauer being then Cape Secretary for native Affairs. You ought to explain that he is somebody and you are nobody. Gordon, who was was surely as honest a man as ever lived, did not take Mr. Rhodes as a humorist. Stepping before the chiefs at the next Indaba, and pointing to Mr. Sauer, he said: You are making a great mistake in treating me as the big man. That is the Great Man of the Whities. I am his servant, only his dog, nothing more."

It is odd that the birthdays of so many of the principal figures brought into prominence by the war should fall together. Friday was the birthday of Mr. Rhodes and Mr. Stead. Saturday was the birthday of Mr. Courtney and Sir George White, and on Monday Birmingham wished the Colonial Secretary many happy returns. Sir George White stands for Ireland on the battlefields of South Africa, though he has been away from the fighting long enough to want to be back again no doubt. It is curiously interesting to remember that of the four men who have been at the head of the army in South Africa three have been Irishmen.

NOTICES.

Losing your hair? Do you bring out a combful each morning? Has it lost its natural brightness? Is it beginning to look faded and dead?

Do you like this condition of things? Certainly not. Then stop this falling of the hair at once. Stop it before your hair is thin, short, and lifeless. Make your hair beautiful, glossy, silky, abundant.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
Is a Hair Food.

When your hair is well nourished it does not come out. 'Tis weak hair, starved hair, that falls. It's just so with thin hair, short hair, rough hair. Such hair needs feeding. This is why Ayer's Hair Vigor stops falling of the hair.

If your hair is gray, and you don't care to look as thirty as if you were sixty, then you should use Ayer's Hair Vigor. It always restores color to gray hair, all the dark, rich, beautiful color it had when you were young.

A STUBBORN FOE.

To conquer an obstinate enemy requires persistency and perseverance. It is the same with Rheumatism, the dread foe of mankind, which ranks foremost in stubbornness. To eradicate it from the system, you must use the right weapon, Little's Oriental Balm is the only remedy that can overpower it. It has cured helpless, crippled sufferers who have been discharged from the hospital as incurable.

Mr. W. Williams, Eve Road, Leyton, says—"For 3 years I have been rendered unfit for work by Rheumatism. At night, terrible shooting pains kept me in agony. I could not sleep on my arms. Two boxes of that wonderful remedy, Little's Oriental Balm, cured me completely. I can recommend it with utmost confidence." Sold at 1s. 6d. per box. Of all chemists.

A REVOLUTION IN FURNISHING.
BY SMALL MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

IT is possible that many Officers and Indian Civilians are not aware of Messrs. NORMAN & STACEY'S Entire Revolution in Furnishing. This well-known Fim has introd uced a system of Insurance in their business, of which

Mr. LABOUCHERE writes in "TRUTH":

"NORMAN & STACEY have introduced in their business an ingenious safeguard against the risk of loss to his widow or family through the death of the hirer. They give an insurance upon his life, so that if, for instance, a man gets £200 worth of furniture on the hire-purchase system, and dies when instalments to the amount of £190 have been paid, not only does the furniture become the property of his representatives, but the £190 is also repaid to them."

LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL

THE PUREST. THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBL THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

Incontestably proved by Forty Years' Medical Experience to be
The only Cod Liver Oil which produces the full curative effects in

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS:

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.
"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognized."

DR. R. C. CROFT,
Author of "Handbook for the Nursery."
"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."
